

OPERATING COST PER OFFENDER (PER CAPITA)

The Department-wide per capita cost of housing offenders was $20,979 in FY 2001, up 8.0% from FY 2000. Salary increases for all DOC employees, and additional salary increases specifically for Corrections Officers, account for this per capita cost increase. The different facility types have different per capita costs for a variety of reasons. Inmates housed in field units and work centers present lower security risks than those housed in major institutions. These inmates also do not have chronic, serious health problems, therefore they need only modest medical resources. For these reasons field units and work centers tend to have lower per capita costs than major institutions.

Probationers housed in community facilities also present lower security risks and have lower medical costs than inmates housed in major institutions. However, the small size of these facilities prevents them from realizing economies of scale. Every facility, regardless of size, incurs fixed costs (administrative/food/medical staff, utilities, repairs, maintenance, etc.) that do not vary directly with offender population, causing small facilities to experience higher per capita costs than large ones.
